203: ACTIVITY

God is more than a powerful Creator who put the world into motion, stepped back, and never interacted with it again. God demonstrates in many ways that he is, in fact, intimately involved in the world he created. Within the pages of the Bible, we learn about God's detailed plan to reconcile humans back to himself after the first sin. God's involvement in human affairs and the world around us is part of his nature and plan to redeem all who obey him.

Memory Verses: Num. 23:19; Matt. 10:29–31; John 5:17

Key Points

- God is sovereign over all creation and accomplishes his plans and purposes.
- The story of the Bible shows God's personal relationship with humanity and his purposeful intention of reconciling all things to himself.
- God intervenes in human history, influencing events to accomplish his will.
- God's response to human actions—both obedience and disobedience—shows his care for all people.
- God's ultimate will is revealed in Jesus.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. If the Bible shows God's involvement in the lives of his people, why do people feel distant from him today?
2. How does a belief in God impact our understanding of pain and hardship?
3. How does God's plan for redeeming humankind fit into God's involvement in history?
